A downpour of rain failed to delay Narberth's service flag unfurling ceremony last Sunday or dampen the patriotic spirit of 2500 persons who were present for the ceremonies. The picture above shows the flag fluttering above the speaker's stand from which the Hon. Clare Gerald Fenerty of the Common Pleas Court, Philadelphia, spoke. The number inscribed on the flag—282, indicates the number of young men who have gone from Narberth to join the armed forces.

"Fire Helps Hitler" Is Theme Of Fire Prevention Week Observance
Marshal Benson Asks Household to Conserve Water During Air Raid Drills; Posters Displays; Schools Hold Rallies

Extra care that is needed in fire precautions because of the war is being stressed in the observance of Fire Prevention Week by the Lower Merion Township and Narberth Borough.

The week is being observed with school programs, posters, displays, open houses at the Township and Borough fire houses.

"Each dwelling should be looked upon as a separate fire unit," Fire Marshal Harvey W. Benson warns householders in asking them to check and recheck on the condition of their premises.

At the same time he points out the necessity for community measures during air raid alarms and drills. To insure a great water pressure as possible in the event of an emergency, he suggests householders should draw as little water as possible until well after the all clear signal.

Fire Prevention Week will be observed by the Junior and Senior High Schools at an assembly meeting Friday afternoon when Marshal Benson will speak briefly. He will stress the greater importance now than ever before of fire prevention when practically any loss hinders the war effort, talk over safety rules, and give some statistics regarding the loss by fire.

Posters throughout the Township call the week graphically to the attention of residents. One of the most startling bears the legend, "Today Every Fire Helps Hitler," and shows the "leader" gloating over a group of burning buildings.

Everyone interested in civic affairs is being invited to attend the open houses being held by all fire companies throughout the Township this week, look over the apparatus and ask any questions they care to of the men on duty.

2500 Attend Ceremonies At Unfurling Of Boro Service Flag

Program Completed Before Downpour; Parade Impressive With Two Bands In Line; Burgess Miller Speaks In Behalf Of Citizens

The clouds hung low and ominous when the time came last Sunday afternoon to unfurl Narberth's Service Flag at the Station Circle, but events proved they were not as surly as they seemed, as every last detail of the program had been completed before the rain started to come in innocuous patter.

Only when the throng had returned safely to its home did the real down-pour occur and it was observed that autumn tears might have had their appropriate place on an occasion where neither joy nor gladness reigned supreme.

That throng, according to Council President Roland Fleer, who made some careful calculations, numbered not less than 2500 persons, and there was no discordant note among them as to the complete acceptability of the ceremonies.

The preliminary parade was without question the most impressive procession which ever traversed the thorough streets and those who so skillfully formed its serried ranks are entitled to high praise and many substantial memories.

Leading it was Burns F. Best, holding forth in a dual capacity, as chairman of the Service Flag Committee and as Commander of the local American Legion Post, the warriors of old who formed the vanguard.

Other organizations represented included the Woman's Community Club and the Benjamin Rush Chapter of the D. A. R., specially mentioned because it is not the wonted way of these ladies to march behind a band, but they proceeded with a precision that indicated they found zest in the enterprise and were glad that they were there.

Other activities in the martial array were as follows:

Pageant Planned For Scout Dinner
Morse Baker, Of Bryn Mawr, Will Be Toastmaster

Preliminary plans for the annual district dinner of Scout leaders of the Main Line district were made at a meeting at the home of C. Summer Davis, 466 Montgomery av., Bryn Mawr, recently.

The dinner will be held Friday, November 6, at the First Presbyterian Church, Montgomery av. and Mill Creek rd., Ardmore. Morse Baker, of Bryn Mawr, will be toastmaster.

Invitations have been sent out to all Scout leaders of the Main Line, including Scoutmasters and assistants, members of troop committees, and the district and neighborhood commissioners.

Among those who attended the preliminary meeting were Tom Miller, Bert Curtis, Earl Thompson, Walter Rosengarten, Fielding Howe, Morse Baker and Charles A. Wright.

Walter Sharp Wins Victory Garden Award
Walter Sharp, Gladwyne, has been awarded a defense bond by the Victory Garden Committee of the Lower Merion Council of Defense for the most outstanding Victory Garden of the past season.

Mr. Sharp's, which he and his son have tended, was well planned and kept.

Rat Scourge Is Feared; Ask Citizens To Fight It
Officially Lower Merion Township has a Pled Piper but unofficially the Township is asking the residents to do the piping.

Warned of an approaching scourge of rats that is moving eastward and increasing reports from residents of their prevalence the Lower Merion Board of Health at its meeting Monday night decided it was time to act.

The man who will have charge of the rat extermination campaign is William B. Titlow, Jr., deputy fire marshal, who has been temporarily transferred to the Health Department by the commissioners.

The Township is not expecting to take a hand in the extermination but through Titlow will encourage the residents to do so. Titlow will visit the premises of places from where complaints are received and advise the owners on the best methods to be used.

Members of the Board of Health are collecting data on rats, their habits and the best method of exterminating them. This will be compiled, printed and distributed from house to house.

In explaining why the Board of Health cannot take extermination in their own hands like they do with dogs or other health measures the health directors offer this explanation:

"The citizens of the Township should clearly understand that the Board of Health cannot undertake full responsibility of rat extermination. The very nature of this problem requires organized efforts of all the citizens in the Community."

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK October 4-10

"Fire started by an incendiary bomb is more destructive than a fire started by carelessness," said E. Russell Matz, chairman of the Montgomery County Defense Council, as he outlined the part that Civilian Defense leaders will take in the activities of Fire Prevention Week, which started Sunday.

"Fire is a weapon that the enemy will use against us if he can," Matz said, "and the British have found that fire can be more destructive than high explosives. During Fire Prevention Week, every citizen should learn how to help prevent fires. If all take advantage of this opportunity, our community will be in a much better position to protect itself from fires started by air raiders,

THE CHRISTMAS COLLECTION CHAIRMAN HAS SOME RAINY NIGHT REFLECTIONS

There might have been another feature to last Sunday's attractive Service Flag program which would have added to the significance of the occasion and which would have provided many reflections as to the kind of impressive contribution this small residential town is making to the War Effort.

That extra part of the ceremonies would have resulted in letting our people know exactly how our local young men are now spread all over the earth in their gallant efforts to bring victory to our Country's Cause.

The information came to hand because the families of our warriors were asked to advise the addresses to which the town's Christmas gifts should be sent and no one can behold what is set forth on these numerous cards unless they are stirred by the profoundest emotions as to the extent of the offering which is now being made by the sons of this community.

We have all come to know what it means when mail is to be sent to the Postmaster at New York... and at San Francisco... and at New Orleans... and at Seattle... and it is to all those points that mail now goes from the Borough to young men who not so long ago played their full part in all our church, school and other local activities.

"My boy is in the Solomon Islands," said one good mother at the flag ceremonies on Sunday, and whose card indicated "San Francisco, P. O." as her son's address... and those who heard her say it, and who could not help but observe the inescapable fear and throb, knew that boy well and they also knew well that he would accept his duty as it came to him and without fear or flinching.

"I cannot use the reserved seat," was the plaintive note of another card... "the boy from our house was lost at sea."

Yes, it might succeed in bringing the actualities of bitter War a little more vividly to the home-front if a compilation were made of this precious data and if our citizens were more fully cognizant of the manner in which their immediate environment is being exalted by virtue of the spirit and sacrifice of those who have gone forth from this neighborhood in the service of our imperiled nation.

There is not a great deal we can do for those who have thus accepted the sterner part of the fray except to pray for their welfare and to be alert to use every opportunity which will let them know that we are unceasing in our affections and in our warm solicitude for their best possible estate.

Hence, the Christmas Gift which is proposed as a community tribute to every local man on the War-rolls and which needs no defense as the best-of-all expression of Narberth's appreciation of those who represent the town in the camps and in all the far-flung places of the world-wide combat.

From time immemorial a gift has been the token of regard for those in whom one is well pleased, the symbol of faith in those who advance our cause and of whom we are gratefully proud... it sings the hymn of the heart when men wish to make fond deference to the beloved, not only in romantic adventure, but also in those transcendent things which induced the Magi to come well-laden to the Crib at Bethlehem.

This is no belabored nor stilted relationship with what we aim to do for those from here who face the foe in our behalf, for this gift-occasion surely calls for the noblest sentiments we can summon, and whilst the well-chosen articles we send will be of little value of themselves, they will at least convey that we yearn to come closer to our absent lads, and to share with them, as best we can, the truest joys of Christmas-tide.

Nevertheless, the collectors have already been told that gifts to the camps and war-fronts should not be expected from those households on which the Nation has made no call and when this extraordinary protest is encountered it is suggested that nothing should be done about it, no argument, no discussion, no effort to let the light shine in.

There will be a meeting on Thursday evening, October 15, 1942, at the Community Building, when it is expected the collection will have been completed, and when the final decisions will be made as to what should be sent. There will be many samples of unusual gifts, articles of the beaten-track, but no candy, cake or cigarettes, nothing perishable. As an idea of what shall not be sent, the assortment is not apt to include a solitary thing from what the department stores call "Special Gifts for Service Men."

The town has much more imagination than what these counters reveal and our boxes should prove it.

The meeting will be open to all and it is hoped there will be a numerous attendance so that the varied tasks in connection with the packing, addressing and shipping will be equitably shared.

Some of the local organizations have sent in special contributions and it is hoped that all of them will be represented on the honor roll in a similar manner.

Carl B. Metzger, Jr., at the Bank is the Treasurer.

THE CHAIRMAN.

service men who belong to a different Church or to no Church at all.

7—Our Town will donate the cost of delivering the packages to destination; a similar donation is sought to cover the expense of the boxes. The desire is to use the money collected, for the service men exclusively, not for any of the incidental items.

8—It is emphasized that the meeting on next Thursday is open to all and it is hoped that each local organization will have at least one representative present.

9—A special call is made on those who can afford donations of substantial sums, organizations or individuals, in which generous event checks should be made payable to "Gifts For Service Men" and delivered to Mr. Metzger at the Bank.

10—The Committee was not aware of the distinction when it decided on the designation of "Gifts for Enlisted Men." It is now too late to change the name of the Fund, but it should be understood that it is the intention to send a gift to each man from Narberth in the Armed Forces irrespective of his rank.

11—Those families which have not as yet returned the cards indicating the last address of their kin are asked to do so this week-end, please, as a complete roll is sought and there are still many to be heard from.

No One Got In Paul Revere's Way

Paul Revere carried an important war message. No one got in his way.

Today's war messages speed over telephone lines—thousands and thousands of them every day. We must not get in their way.

With America's telephone system burdened with the greatest flood of calls in history, we urge—
Make only necessary calls.

Keep all calls short.
Whenever possible, call in the "off-peak" hours—

WHAT IS IN YOUR WARTIME PANTRY?

There is enough food in America to nourish everyone; and most of us can get all we need. Yet, as a nation, we are actually undernourished because we do not eat properly. Some things you won't be able to buy, others will be expensive. Many women now have to pack lunches for those employed in defense plants. Mrs. Marian G. Kemp, home economist, is showing women how to plan wartime meals at the big PANTRY PARTY held every Thursday and Friday afternoons at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of the Philadelphia Electric Company, Ninth and Sansom Streets, Philadelphia. Everyone is cordially invited, no admission charge. Mrs. Mabel Love, the hostess, has many free samples and attractive prizes for her hilarious "Quiz"-Contest. Make up a group to come next week and enjoy the fun.

Ardmore Is Liquor Oasis To Thirsty Philadelphians

Main Line's State liquor stores became a mecca this week because of the lockout strike being staged by the employees for an increase in their average wage of $23 a week.

The first part of the week the State stores in Bryn Mawr and Bala were closed and the Ardmore store was being manned by a staff of 15 clerks, ten of them from Bryn Mawr and Bala.

John J. Kehoe, Conshohocken, is manager of the Ardmore store.

On Tuesday pickets from Philadelphia started to march up and down in front of the Ardmore store displaying placards asking the people to cease patronizing the stores until they were paid a living wage.

As most of the buyers were Philadelphia licensees, who had rushed out from the city to stock up, they paid little attention to the placards.

There was no disturbance except a slight ruffle on Wednesday, when a clerk pushing a liquor cart along the sidewalk thought he had been jostled by one of the pickets. He challenged the picket to "just lay a hand on me" and they stood glaring at each other until a Lower Merion patrolman walked over and told the picket to go back to Philadelphia... which he did.

Pickets tried to talk to the clerks but the answer they received was that the clerks did not want to take a chance of losing their $23 a week. Liquor store employees on the Main Line never belonged to the State liquor employees association but at one time had an organization of their own which ceased to function four years ago.

James To Speak At School Opening Formal Dedication Of L. M. Vocational Bldg. Next Thurs.

Governor Arthur James and State Senator Franklin Spencer Edmonds will speak at the formal opening of the Lower Merion School Technical Division next Thursday.

They will speak in the auditorium of the Senior High School, Montgomery av., Ardmore, at 8:15 p. m. Following this the new vocational building, which was completed this summer, will be open for inspection.

For those unable to attend the opening ceremony the building will be kept open all the following day, Friday.

The building with equipment cost approximately $360,000. Plans for the structure which is on School lane, to the rear of the present high school and administration units, were prepared by Savery, Scheetz and Glimour, Philadelphia architects. Principal of the school is Russell McGrath.

Courses being taught to the 160 students who have registered include welding, motor mechanics, metal and machine construction, maintenance and drafting. Courses were over-enrolled and the school has a waiting list.

Speaking at a recent meeting of the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Dubois said:

"Construction of the school has taken Lower Merion to the forefront with one of the finest vocational systems in the land."

Your Electric Range is a Kitchen Jewel

Give it Precious Care!

LIKE MANY OTHER ELECTRIC APPLIANCES, YOUR ELECTRIC RANGE MUST LAST FOR THE DURATION. WISE AND CAREFUL USE WILL RESULT IN YEARS OF ADDED LIFE. HERE ARE A FEW HINTS ON ELECTRIC RANGE CARE.

Wash exterior of range with warm, soapy water, when cool. Avoid letting spilled foods dry or harden on range. Food spilled on open surface units should be burned off. Don't use a stiff brush or sharp instrument.

Most closed surface units can be raised and the pan beneath removed for cleaning. Check manufacturer's cleaning directions.

Wipe oven with damp cloth after using. Remove spilled food when oven has cooled.

Have a competent serviceman inspect your range occasionally to see that the vent is clean; that the units are operating properly, and that the wiring is in A-1 condition.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

YOU never know what kind of book Hendrik Willem Van Loon is going to write next, but it's always a safe bet it will be unusual and entertaining. Who else would think of having Shakespeare, George Washington, Confucius and other immortals as his dinner guests, and then writing about such occasions in a book? Well, here's the book—"Van Loon's Lives"—illustrated with the old maestro's drawings.

The book tells how Hendrik Willem and his good friend, Frits, entertained their celebrated guests at the author's ancestral home in the village of Veere, on the Dutch coast. For each occasion the hosts try to prepare repasts such as their honored guests most enjoyed in their earthly existence. Now and then they add a few modern touches. They discover, for instance, that the Dutch humanist, Erasmus, is devoted to chocolate bars. Hans Christian Andersen likes pineapple ice cream—three quarts of it.

On one occasion, their guests are Peter the Great of Russia and Charles XII of Sweden, who turn out to be as mortal enemies in their after-life as they were in their own age. Peter is fascinated by modern contraptions such as the radio and the telephone—he's not content until he's put through a long distance call to Russia on the latter. But his ebullience is offset by the glumness of Charles XII. The dinner party ends with a ghostly duel on the green.

A most charming evening was forthcoming when Mozart, Hans Christian Andersen and Saint Francis were the guests. Mozart attended by his dog; Andersen by the swan who had once been the Ugly Duckling. Of course all the birds showed up for Saint Francis. Another delightful occasion was a picnic for the Bachs and the Breughels; during which the Bachs played and the Breughels painted.

The biggest surprise comes the night they send an invitation to The Greatest Inventor of All Time. They think maybe Edison will show up; or perhaps one of the Wright brothers; but not at all. The fellow who finally makes his appearance is half-man, half-ape. He's the chap who invented the first stone knife, and thus taught men how to defend themselves against the rest of creation.

The Book-of-the-Month Club selection for November will be "Look to the Mountain," a novel of pre-Revolutionary New Hampshire, by Le Grand Cannon, Jr.

Changing names is often very hard on a man's morale, Louis Adamie tells us in his latest book, "What's Your Name?" For instance, there was the Russian immigrant named Mr. Kobotchnik, who at the insistence of his wife and children, became Mr. Cabot. For the 37 years he was Cabot, the man felt he was living a falsehood, that he had lost contact with his essential identity. At the end of that time, in a fit of rebellion, he changed his name back to Kobotchnik—and then he was happy again. Even worse was the plight of his dog, Nurni, named after a famous Finnish runner. Nurni, the same wife and children decided, should be renamed "Buster." Under this indignity, the dog went into a complete neurosis, ending up by running away to the home of his original owner.

A New World

We've discovered that Government War Regulations force us to make drastic changes in our service — both in delivery and laundering. Delivery mileage must be curtailed 25% and shortage of help and essential materials is almost as great. Please allow us sufficient time to do your work satisfactorily. Your cooperation is a contribution to Victory.
